L. F. Fairbanks	of Dublin, N. H.

GENTLEMEN:

In accordance with your request we have made an examination for the purpose of outlining and estimating a public water supply for the town of Dublin.

After an instrumental survey and reconnoissance, we would recommend a system taking water from Dublin Lake by a pump driven by electric motor or other suitable power to a reservoir at a site just off the Troy Road, and thence to town by a pipe line down the state road to a point opposite the Dublin Inn Club.

The comparative elevations or heights of the various points are as follows as referred to an arbitrary base:

Surface of Dublin Lake	292.83
Level of water in proposed reservoir	370.00
State Road in front of town hall	253.00
Center of Cross Road at Dublin Inn Club	76.00

These heights show that the pump would work against a static head of about 77 feet, the length of pumping main being about 2,000 feet. The head at the center of the town opposite the town hall would be about 117 feet or 51 pounds water pressure, and the head at the Dublin Inn Club would be 294 feet or 127 pounds.

We estimate it would require a 6 inch pumping main from Dublin Lake to the line from the reservoir to town at the Troy Road; an eight inch pipe from the Reservoir to a point about opposite Mr. C. E. Gowing's house, a distance of 3300 feet; while the remaining distance of 4000 feet to the lower end of the line could be supplied by a six inch pipe.

Perhaps we should state at this point that it is the draft of water for hydrant use at fires that determine the sizes of main pipes under ordinary conditions, and not the domestic use. The mains must be made large enough to supply the large volume of water needed by hose streams without excessive friction losses which would destroy the effectiveness of the fire streams.

At the town hall we have a head of 117 feet. From such a head through 2800 feet of eight inch pipe we would get three streams through 1 inch nozzles of about 170 gallons per minute each, through 100 feet of $2\frac{1}{2}$ inch smooth lined hose to a distance of 63 feet vertically and 109 feet horizontally.

For one stream through 100 feet of hose at the same site we would expect a stream of about 185 gallons per minute to a height of 83 feet or a horizontal distance of 133 feet.

At the lower end of the system through 3300 feet of eight inch pipe and 4000 feet of six inch pipe we would get 3 one inch streams, of about 200 gallons per minute each, through 100 feet of good quality two and one-half inch hose to a distance of 95 feet vertically and 148 feet horizontally.

The vertical and horizontal distances given for the streams are for extreme drops and for full size of the effective stream would be somewhat less.

After careful consideration we have deemed it better to place the reservoir at the elevation spoken of and to make the system a unit rather than to attempt to divide it into high and low service by two reservoirs at different elevations or to attempt to use a pressure reducing valve part way down the line of pipe.

The former of these two methods, by a high and low service reservoir, is out of the question on account of the cost which would be prohibitive particularly since the low part in question is at the extreme end of the system and is only about 1500 feet long.

The second method of a reducing valve, although it has been considered by us, we have deemed to be unsatisfactory on account of its unreliability; we do not believe it feasible and particularly so in case of a large draft as would be the case at a fire, when it either might not work at all or allow too small a quantity of water to pass.

The lower end although under a large head can be operated safely and give efficient results by using heavy pipe as figured in the estimate, and if desired small pressure reducing valves on the house services although these last will not be necessary. In this connection it may be interesting to note that the water pressure at Montpelier, Vt., is 156 pounds per square inch as compared with a maximum of about 130 pounds here on the extreme lower end only of the system.

We probably need not say much concerning the advisability and advantage to be gained by installing a public water supply. We have been connected either in the capacity of engineer or contractor for upwards of 30 such works in the past and we have yet to see an instance of one which has not more than paid expenses (and usually much more) and been an asset to the town rather than a liability.

The saving in insurance rates should be an appreciable sum and offset largely the interest on the cost of the work.

We insert at this point the estimate of cost which we believe ample to do the work.

220 tons cast iron pipe at $60.00	$13,200 00
Special castings	225 00
20 hydrants at $60.00	1,200 00
5—6 inch gates at $30.00	150 00
2—8 inch gates at $45.00	90 00
9600 feet trenching and laying pipe at $75.00	7,200 00
200 cubic yards ledge at $10.00	2,000 00
Pump motor and installing	800 00
Pumping station	1,000 00
Suction pipe	250 00
Reservoir of 250,000 gallons capacity	5,500 00
Hauling pipe, etc.	450 00
	$32,065 00
Add 10% for engineering and contingencies	3,206 50
	$35,271 50

With regard to the estimate the amount of ledge is of course a matter of judgment from surface indications and from known places where others have found it in excavating, but we think the estimate will cover it. The pumping station can be more expensive and the surroundings of the reservoir be improved at an additional cost if desired.

We have made no allowance for land damage or rights of way, but we cannot believe that these will be a very substantial sum, in any case your committee is better able to pass upon this than we are.

The reservoir has been estimated of a capacity of 250,000 gallons. This it seems to us is ample for the size of the town and the draft liable to come upon it in case of fire. For instance, if full it would support three hydrant streams for twenty hours, but fires do not always happen with a full reservoir and there is plenty of room for a margin of safety. But the main point would be that there would be a sufficient reserve should anything happen to the pump to allow ample time to repair or replace it.

With regard to the kind of pumping machinery, would install a rotary driven by an electric motor if the town can arrange with the electric company which supplies the town for a reasonable rate for such service, as no doubt can be done. If such arrangement cannot be made power can be furnished by a gasoline engine or a hot air engine can be installed.

We have figured in the estimate on setting 20 hydrants to take care of the fire risk. This would space hydrants at about 200 feet apart on the average, varying of course according to the number of buildings, which would seem to be ample.

It has been suggested that a siphon system might be installed taking water from Dublin Lake and siphoning it over the ridge near the proposed reservoir site. This seems to us to be rather impracticable. The ridge is about 42 feet higher than the Lake. Water can be theoretically raised about 33 feet by a vacuum which acts in case of the siphon, which is reduced in practice to about 27 or 28 feet by friction in the pipe and by air which forces itself in. Therefore we would have to make a cut through the ridge of at least 15 feet, and more would be better, to make the siphon work at all; also we must have means for filling the siphon at the summit every few hours with water to keep it operative.

Even if we could make the siphon perfectly operative, the head would be too small for fire protection in the center of the town. Finally a siphon must be kept running nearly at size to be kept going, which is not at all the condition to be met with in a public service.

In conclusion we present this plan and estimate to you, confident that it will work well and that the estimate will be found to be reliable.

REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

To the Citizens of the Dublin School District:

We herewith submit the one hundred and third annual report of our schools.

The district has been most fortunate this year in that essential factor in good schools—the teachers. With the return of Mrs. Richardson to the No. 3 School not only efficient teaching but kindly interest in the development of each boy and girl was insured. Miss Rabadeau who again has a room full of little people at No. 1 School has given the mothers and fathers a chance to see something of her really exceptional talent with the kindergarten grades in an exhibition given in the Vestry one evening this Fall. Mrs. Proper and Miss Campbell, the new additions to our force have done conscientious, capable work.

There have been two “extras” for the children of No. 1 School. Mr. T. C. Brockway gave his time and energy during the noon hour last Spring toward teaching manual training to the boys. The results were, not only the arousing of a wholesome interest in hand work, but also several very useful articles made with a certain degree of skill. This last term Dr. Richards has given a half hour weekly to lessons in First Aid and Hygiene.

So much for the heritage of schools,—books, teachers and lessons. As to the environment, there have been several improvements in the sanitary conditions of No. 2 School such as screening of windows and fixing of drains. The grounds at No. 1 school have been the subject of investigation and planning. Mr. Moran drew up plans and presented the committee with the blue prints after a conference with Mr. Fletcher Steele an eminent landscape gardener who was in town this summer. It was found that to work these plans out by a single contract all at once would be much too expensive. However, the committee believes that little by little we can work along the lines suggested by the blue prints, beginning with the stone retaining wall near the road, then the constructing of a better path or road up to the door and the planting of some shrubs and flowering bushes near the building. So the help of public-spirited citizens would be welcome.

The school house according to the vote of the town was completely paid for Jan. 1, 1925, thereby freeing Dublin of that debt and enabling us to leave out the $250 for interest from our budget items this year.

The following is our estimated Budget for the coming year:

Salaries of School District officers	$250 00
High School tuitions	1,000 00
Transportation	1,700 00

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the School Board of Dublin:

Herewith is submitted for your consideration my sixth annual report on the condition of your schools.

TEACHERS

Two teachers remained in service this year from last year's force, Mrs. Richardson at number 3 and Miss Rabadeau at the Village primary school. During the summer vacation Mrs. Frederick resigned her position in the Village grammar school and Miss Elizabeth Campbell, a graduate of the Fitchburg Normal school, was secured for the position. At the number 2 school Mrs. Emogene Proper was secured for the current year.

WORK IN GENERAL

I am quite sure that the work being done in the schools this year is producing good results, in fact, better than in some previous years. This considering the four schools as a whole. The teachers are faithful and earnest, have had special training for their work, and the children are entering heartily into the activities of the schools.

Two standard tests have been given this fall, one in reading and one in the fundamentals in arithmetic. The test in reading was to show the ability of the children to comprehend what they read, or, in other words, their ability to get thought from the printed page. It often happens that children are able to read orally quite fluently, but are lacking in the ability to really get the thought from what they read. This is readily apparent in the difficulty they have in getting a geography or history lesson, or, in fact, any lesson which is dependent upon thoughtful reading, and as so much of our school work is dependent upon this ability one can see how important it is. Out of 35 pupils examined from grades three to eight inclusive 15, or about 43% equalled or surpassed the standard set. This would indicate that more than half of the pupils in the schools were lacking in the ability to get the thought accurately from what they read. Accordingly emphasis is being placed upon a systematic attempt to improve this deficiency.

Thirty-seven pupils in the same grades were tested in the fundamental operations of arithmetic. Of these 20, or 53% equalled or surpassed the standard set for their grade. From this we might conclude that arithmetic is being better taught than reading. This probably is the result of the more intensive drill that has been placed upon the fundamentals in arithmetic for the past year or so.

Shortly a test in spelling will be given. This will cover the words studied the first half of this year, also, words taken from the lists of previous years. These latter to discover how well the pupils retain what they have once learned. Tests in other subjects will be given from time to time during the year.

These tests are all standardized and by using them we are able to discover how our pupils stand in comparison with the pupils in other schools over the country, and, also, to disclose individual weaknesses due, perhaps, to faulty learning or poor teaching methods.

ATTENDANCE

There were 84 different pupils enrolled in the schools during the year, with an average membership of 58.6 and an average attendance of 53.2. The great difference between enrollment and average attendance is accounted for by the fact that quite a number of pupils are not in town during the winter months, and also because of the fact that the fall enrollment includes a number of children who are not year round residents of the town. The per cent of attendance for the year was 90.7, with 180 cases of tardiness reported. This is better than the year previous in both respects, but is not as good as it ought to be, especially as regards the amount of tardiness. This is one school vice which would appear to be without excuse except in rare instances, for a little attention to the matter on the part of parents and pupils would cure the evil. The habit of being late to appointments is one easy to acquire, but which, of course, would not be tolerated in later life.

Last year we were unfortunate in having to lose so much time out of the school year. Because of the outbreak of a case of scarlet fever in one of the schools all schools were closed a week early. In addition to this an average of 6.6 days, or over one week, was lost on account of holidays, stormy weather and other no school days, making a total of over two weeks lost altogether. It would seem to be the part of economy to reduce the no school days to the lowest possible minimum.

HEALTH

The following is the result of the health inspection held last June:

Malnutrition	1
Defective vision	16
Defective hearing	5
Anaemia	1
Cardiac disease	1
Pulmonary	1
Defective teeth	31
Enlarged tonsils	14
Adenoids	11
Defects of breathing	10
Enlarged glands	11
Unvaccinated	7

Since the previous year three cases of defective vision were reported as having been corrected, 12 cases of defective teeth, 2 of enlarged tonsils, 2 of adenoids, and 2 of defective breathing received attention. Forty-two pupils in all were examined.

This report would indicate that sufficient attention is not given by parents to the notices of defects sent out by the examining physician. These are of sufficient importance to receive serious consideration, and the children surely are not to blame if defects easily remedied continue year after year.

To all who by their interest and cooperation have helped in the work of the schools, may I express my sincere appreciation.

Respectfully submitted,

L. E. PRIOR
